Congressional delegation raps Guard's flight plan

The four members of Maine's congressional delegation have written a joint letter to the general commanding the National Guard, urging that the Guard abandon its plan for expanded military flight training in Maine.

The proposal, unveiled this past summer, calls for lowering the flight floor to 300 feet in the 200-plus square mile Condor Military Operations Area—the southern tip of which includes the sky over the SAD #44 area.

The Guard proposal also calls for establishing a new operations area, "The Great State of Maine Operations Area," in the northwest corner of the state. The operations floor in the new area would be only 100 feet above the ground.

The military contends the expanded flight areas are needed to provide training space for reservist pilots, primarily from Massachusetts and Connecticut.

At recent meetings between military spokesmen and Maine residents, the plan has been attacked as unwarranted intrusion into the quality of life in the area and as a threat to tourism, the regions second most important source of income.

But opposition has not been unmixed. Some residents of the region have expressed approval for the plan and have circulated petitions of support.

However, the state's Washington delegation is now unanimously on record as opposed to the plan.

In their letter, the delegation—Democrats Sen. George Mitchell and Rep. Tom Andrews, and Republicans Sen. William Cohen and Rep. Olympia Snowe—challenges the necessity for the flights and calls on the military to better police the flights it already conducts in the region.

The letter also argues that there are alternatives to the plan that are both less costly to taxpayers and less environmentally disruptive.

The full text of the letter reads as follows:

Departments of the Army and the Air Force
The Pentagon, Room 2E394

ANDROSCOGGIN CANOEISTS taking part in Saturday's Fall Foliage Flotilla stop at Newt's Landing in West Bethel to pick up a contingent of fellow paddlers. Despite the gray skies, more than two dozen canoeists, kids and dogs took to the river to enjoy the beauty of autumn in western Maine. Those starting from Newt's Landing also found a greatly spiffed up put-in point, now with concrete and timber steps and riprap embankments. The recently completed work was paid for out of the state marine gas tax. The landing site itself has been leased by Roy Newton to the Town of Bethel for a nomimal fee, and named in honor of his father, Burton 'Newt' Newton. The lease arrangement was facilitated by the Friends of the Androscoggin. Located at the end of the Ferry Road (at the site of the old ferry landing) the put in is for the use of the general public. Farmer's market gets trial run on common

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Farmer's Market will set up shop on the Bethel town common next May and October.

The Bethel selectmen Monday night authorized a trial run for the local agricultural market, at the beginning and end of the next growing season.

Tentative plans call for the market to continue to operate from its present Gould Academy site for the months of June through September.

The trial run will be reevaluated at the end of May and again at the end of October, the selectmen said. If the situation proved unworkable—for example, if there was damage to the common—then the arrangement would be cancelled.

The selectmen also held out the option that if the arrangement worked out to everyone's satisfaction, the farmer's market could return to the board next fall and seek permission to remain on the common throughout the 1993 season.

Monday night was only the most recent of a number of attempts by the market members to be allowed to set up their stands on the common.

In the past the approach had been fruitless, as the selectmen worried

Fuel program is running late and low

The federally-funded Low Income Home Energy Assistance program (HEAP), which traditionally accepts applications beginning Oct. 1, has been delayed at the federal level. It is still uncertain when the program for the upcoming heating season will begin.

The HEAP program provides a fuel subsidy to more than 9,400 families in Androscoggin and Oxford County. Community Concepts, Inc., the private, nonprofit agency that has administered the program in the two counties since 1980 predicts that when the program does begin, even more families will be eligible for benefits this fuel season than last year.

Matthew Smith, Community Concepts' director of administration says that funding is being held up in Congress because the House and Senate must first agree on a HEAP budget

Local voyageurs captured by Alaska's vast wilderness

By WENDY HANSCOM

Most people "from away" think their recreational trips to Maine are treks into the wilderness. But four local canoeists, who spent three weeks of August in northwestern Alaska, know they have now deeply experienced the real thing.

Paul McGuire, Doug Brooks and Frank Vogt, all of Bethel, along with Vogt's son Dan canoed 375 miles down the Noatak River, which runs its entire length above the Arctic Circle. The river is in the Brooks Range and flows through the 6.5 million acre Noatak National Park.

Along the way the four camped beside the river, fished, hunted for small game and had a closer-than-comfortable encounter with a grizzly bear and an Arctic wolf.

It was Dan Vogt's research work that took the group so far north. Dan is an assistant professor of biology at the State University of New York in Plattsburgh.

Dan, his father and brother-in-law Doug also made the trip three years ago. It was Paul's first trip to Alaska. During both trips, Dan collected data on the Arctic bee and insect temperature regulation. "Our interest is seeing how animals adapt to cold climates," he said.

To get to that colder climate, the group flew cross-country from Burlington, Vt. to Anchorage. From Anchorage it was on to Nome then to Kotzebue. There are no roads through the mountains to the Noatack River, so the four continued by float plane to the river's headwaters.

But, even above the Arctic Circle the group found a taste of Maine Arctic Air Guides in Kotzebue had cached two Old Town Trippers, manufactured in Old Town, Maine for the downstream paddle.

Canoeing down the Noatak River in August could have been a rainy experience, Dan said, but this year the late summer days were clear.

"We had only one rainy day out of the 15 days we were there," Paul said. "We had a beautiful run of sunny, bright days. It was like gliding on an aquamarine crystal. There was so much gravel in the river that the sun would reflect off of it and the beautiful polished river stones."

The bright sunny days warmed the air and the rocks along the riverbank. To keep clean, Frank said, he took a quick dip in the frigid river, but had to beat a hasty retreat to shore to warm up.

Supplies for the trek were flown in for the campers, who augmented their planned diet of dried foods and pasta with lake trout, grayling, salmon, Arctic char and blueberries. In addition to fly-fishing for their supper, Doug purchased a small game license and bagged a few ptarmigans—northern grouse with completely feathered feet.

There were no established campsites along the river. The paddlers set up camp at logical spots along the way. Frank said guides in the area estimate that about 150 people make the run down the river every year. Even though there were no formal campsites there were signs that the spots had been used by other campers, he said.

The canoeist said the river was lower than they expected. When Frank made the trip the first time in June of 1988 it was early in the Alaskan summer and the ice was barely melted.

No charges likely in accidental gun discharge at Telstar

A hunting safety instructor who accidentally fired a revolver during a safety class in a Telstar High School classroom will not face criminal charges for the shooting.

Police say Dr. Leonard Shaw of Bethel accidently discharged a revolver during the last class of a hunter safety and education course on Sept. 19.

Shaw had been teaching the adult education course for the past six years. He resigned after the incident.

Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman said last week that his department and state game offials have finished their investigation of the incident. The reports were sent to the Oxford County District Attorney's Office, he said.

"I sent my report to the district attorney's office," Bellman said, "and he said over the phone that the office wasn't considering filing any charges."

As a result of the accident the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, which sponsors the hunting safety courses, has adopted a new policy regarding demonstration rounds used in classrooms. From now on all dummy rounds will be blackened before classroom use.

Shaw has repeatedly stated that he hopes the incident will reinforce the idea that firearms should be handled safely at all times.

'V' FOR VICTORY, OR IS IT 'VINAIGRETTE'? Jean Taber of Locke Mills models her grandprize ribbon and Kraft apron she won in the Kraft Mayonnaise Salad Bowl competition at the Fryeburg Fair. A panel of judges choose Jean's potato salad as the grand prize winner out of 34 other entries. Besides the ribbon, apron and salad bowl and utensils, Jean also won $500. Her recipe will be published along with other winners of salad-making contests from across the country. Jean and her husband Arthur moved to Locke Mills just four weeks ago from New York. The electricity in the couple's new house wasn't hooked up yet, so Jean stirred up her salad in their temporary trailer. She said she thinks her entry won the competition because it was a simple backyard variety potato salad that takes little time to prepare. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

Bethel merchants plan Christmas celebration

The Bethel Merchant's Association is planning a daylong celebration of the Christmas season on Dec. 7, entitled "A Country Christmas in Bethel."

The group is putting together a list of community activities including caroling, sleigh rides, tree lighting and a visit by Santa Claus. A business and private home decorating contest is also being planned.

The planning committee of Carol Parker. Cheri Thurston and Tom McGinniss will be contacting the school district to invite student participation. Parker said a parade may be organized if enough people are interested.

Parker added that the committee hopes local service groups will use the day to kick off their annual Christmas campaigns.

The committee is also inviting anyone who lives in Bethel's historic district to decorate their homes and then hold an open house.

Anyone who has ideas for the celebration can contact Parker, 824-2782; Thurston, 824-2174; McGinniss, 824-3400 or the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, 824-2282.

Public hearing set on resurfacing Rt. 26 in Greenwood

The Maine Department of Transportation has scheduled a public hearing on Oct. 21, 7 p.m. at the Greenwood Town Hall to discuss the resurfacing a portion of Route 26 in the town.

Improvements are planned on Route 26 through the Locke Mills village. The proposed plan calls for 1.57 miles of the road to be resurfaced and improved—beginning 200 feet north of the East Bethel Road and continuing until just beyond the Greenwood/Woodstock town line.

At their regular meeting last week the town's selectmen said they were skeptical that the project would be completed any time soon. "This is only in the hearing stage and the state has no money anyway," Selectman Harry Swan said.

Selectman Marie Bartlett said she's not opposed to the plan as long as the state doesn't increase the speed limit through the village. She added that the current 35 mph speed limit is often ignored. "If the DOT widens the shoulders of Route 26 in the village, people may take advantage of that to drive even faster than they do now" she said.

Selectmen said they are urging residents to attend the Oct. 21 public hearing. The plan is available for public inspection at the town office.

THANKS FOR THE HELP WITH HIKE/WALK/RUN

To the Editor:

The Mahoosuc Arts Hike/Walk/Run Race Committee members would like to extend their appreciation to all the artists who submitted designs for the 1991 Hike/Walk/run shirts and congratulate Sarah Shepley of Bethel whose artwork is currently being printed for the race by Groan and McGurn screenprinters.

The Arts Council would also like to thank 1991 race sponsors: Gould Academy, Sunday River Ski Resort, Crisports, Boise Cascade, New Balance Shoe, Groan and McGurn, the Lewiston Sun Journal, and the Bethel Citizen for their support for this event. If Mother Nature is as generous as these organizations have been, we should look forward to glorious weather in the mountains next Saturday.

THANKS TO ARTS COUNCIL

To the Editor:

This is a long overdue letter of appreciation for the Mahoosuc Arts Council.

As a member of the Fine Arts faculty of Telstar Middle/High School, I would like to congratulate the members of the Council on the excellent job they have been doing. They have managed to present a vast array of fine programs for the enrichment of the community and the education and enrichment of our area youth. I regret that I am not better acquainted with all of the Council members, but I must pay tribute to the tireless efforts of those with whom I have the most contact during the course of the year. Marguerite Graham and Vicki Rackliffe deserve a great deal of praise for the tireless effort they put into each and every presentation. These ladies and the entire Council are a most valuable asset to our community.

WHERE ARE THE FARMERS?

To the Editor:

The Agricultural Task Force was to have met last Friday. Some 30 letters were sent inviting farmers, greenhouse folks, real estate folks, the Chamber of Commerce, and a few others I thought might be interested. Only the Chamber called sending regrets.

But no one came.

Although I did not have everyone's exact address when the invitations were sent Sept. 17, none were returned. I took the initiative in organizing a meeting and can only assume apathy as an excuse.

I am willing to organize another meeting. If there is any interest the Community Conference seems to be a great time to air your views. How does agriculture benefit the town and area? How can the town help agriculture—for example, different tax structures, noise levels, educating others about farming practices?

I realize I am not a "real farmer", but I am interested in agriculture, and can write down your ideas. I am in the phone book. Please call if you are interested in meeting before Oct. 19. However, I will be out of town Oct. 10-13.

PUMPKIN THIEVES SQUASH YOUNG BOY'S TRUST

To the Editor

This letter is to the person(s) who stole my eleven-year-old son's pumpkins.

My son and I planted pumpkins last spring to sell a few and give him his first small business venture beyond a lemonade stand. This morning, Oct. 4, we awoke to a beautiful day only to discover 25 or so of the pumpkins had been stolen from our front porch during the night.

If you have ever had anything stolen from your private property, you will understand the depth of violation we felt with this discovery. It leaves you feeling that everyone is suspect, and it destroys a part of one's trust in mankind. If you have not experienced this, I hope you never do.

My son is devastated! His work and hopes were dashed and he was hurt in a way that will scar him for life. I, nor you, will see the scar, but it will affect how he looks at life, and how he treats the world in years to come. His trust has been diminished.

So, to you thieves, remember that we will remember and think of you (though we don't know for sure who you are) each year on Halloween for the rest of our lives. And, know too, that we as a family, believe that what goes around, comes around.

May you have a happy Halloween.

over possible damage to the common, the lack of nearby parking and the precedent that would be set by allowing private merchants to conduct business on the common.

"I don't think we want to open it up to the whole of Oxford County," said selectman Art Gilbert, noting that many of the farmer's market members were not Bethel residents.

However, at Monday's meeting nearly a dozen market members and their supporters showed up to argue their case. And they had earlier presented the board with a petition signed by approximately 100 customers, roughly half of whom are from Bethel.

A number of the people who had signed the petition also noted on it that they thought the common was a traditional and appropriate setting for a small-scale agricultural enterprise such as the farmer's market.

The market members agreed, but they also raised a number of practical reasons for using the common.

The Gould location is needed by the academy during the school year, they said, making it unavailable to the market. This forces the market to truncate its season and lowers the market members' already marginal profits.

In addition, they argued, the common is closer to the center of town and more easily reached by the elderly residents of Sudbury Village and the Bethel House.

As to the parking problem, they argued, the handful of vendors and their customers did not require many parking spaces. And parking is also limited at the Gould location, but this has never proven to be a problem.

And, they said, the grass at the Gould location has not been damaged by the four hours a week the market is in operation there.

Responding to the selectmen's worry about establishing a precedent by allow commercial businesses to operate on the common, market member Jeanne Boelsma pointed out that on both Mollyockett Day and the day of the Bethel Art Fair a number of commercial enterprises are already doing business on the common.

Following the market members comments, chairman of the selectmen Arlan Jordan said; "I think they've solved their problems here tonight," and the selectmen went on to vote unanimously to allow the trial run.

In other business Monday, the selectmen discussed, but took no final action on, a request by Lillian Lowell for the abatement of a sewer bill and on a proposal that the town discontinue selling salted sand to commercial users.

The board also approved the allocation of $750 for the repair of the dry hydrant at Newt's Landing in West Bethel, and approved $3,400, plus $500 in legal fees, for a two-year extension of the gravel pit lease.

Following public hearings at the beginning of Monday's meeting, the board approved victualer's licenses for the Hometown Bakery and the Bethel Store, and a liquor license and special amusement permit for the Sudbury Inn. No one appeared to raise objections to any of the permits, and all were approved unanimously.

State's public broadcasting networks consider merger

WCBB Television, headquartered in Lewiston, and the Maine Public Broadcasting Network (MPBN), headquartered in Bangor, have opened discussions concerning new levels of cooperation, including the possibility of consolidation.

The Board of Trustees of the Colby-Bates-Bowdoin Educational Telecasting Corporation, holders of the WCBB's license, and the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine System, holders of the MPBN's Broadcast licenses, will consider whether restructuring both broadcast entities will enhance service to public broadcasting audiences.

An announcement issued jointly by Robert Gardiner, general manager of WCBB and Edward Winchester, general manager of MPBN, indicated that changes in the broadcast environment, including the proliferation of cable services, new broadcast technologies and public broadcasting programming trends, have brought to the fore the issue of closer collaboration.

Both stations are experiencing record high levels of viewers and public membership. Both general managers expressed the need to plan for trends affecting the long-range future; both are committed to a quality television and radio service for audiences across their vast coverage area.

WCBB and MPBN currently operate under an agreement to exchange locally produced programs at no cost and cooperate in other ways. Both managers expressed interest in closer collaboration as a means to produce more local programming of interest statewide and achieve greater efficiencies in the cost of delivering programming and services. The Boards of Trustees will determine whether future discussions will take place.

Carol Welsh is new director of skier relations at Mt. Abram

Ski Mt. Abram has announced the addition of Carol Welch for the upcoming ski season. She will serve as director of skier relations, said Donald Cross, president of the Locke Mills ski area.

"This is a new position we've created, and we're excited about what Welsh plans for this year. We have something scheduled everyday midweek beginning in January, and a greatly expanded calendar of events for weekends and holidays," stated Cross.

Mt. Abram is a family mountain with skiing for every ability. When Welsh moved here from Oklahoma in 1988 with her family, husband John, son John V, 13, and daughter Laura, 7, all were non-skiers. "At Mt. Abram, we not only discovered an exciting lifetime sport, but a ski area that allowed us to develop from learner to expert in a friendly, family-type atmosphere," says Welsh. "As director of skier relations, I'll have the opportunity to promote these aspects of Ski Mt. Abram."

Welsh begins work this month with advance reservations for group packages and preparation for the many special events that are scheduled for the season. For information about this year's calendar or group reservations, she can be reached at 875-2601. Opening day is set for Dec. 1.

"I'm pleased to be a part of the Mt. Abram staff, and I am looking forward to a busy, fun-filled 1991-1992 winter," Welsh said.

Study shows hunters drop big bucks

Hunters know it, their spouses have suspected it, and now there are figures to prove it: Hunters spend a lot of money pursuing their sport.

Maine resident hunters spent an average of $946 each to hunt in their home state in 1988. Nonresident hunter expenditures in Maine averaged $928 that year.

Overall, hunters contributed $185 million to the Maine economy in 1988, $36 million of which, the nonresident portion, was "new" money in the state.

The figures are among the findings of a three-year study conducted by the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of Maine for the Maine legislative Commission to Study the Impact of Game and Nongame Species on Maine's Economy.

In addition to determining economic values, the study explored other issues related to hunting, fishing, trapping and nonconsumptive uses of Maine's fish and wildlife resources. The information was compiled primarily from responses to questionnaire surveys mailed to randomly-selected hunters, fishermen and other groups.

Among other findings from the hunting portion of the study:

- Over 90 percent of hunters (residents and nonresidents alike) hunt deer in Maine, but no other species is hunted by more than 40 percent.
- The top five species, in terms of resident hunter interest, are deer (95 percent), ruffed grouse (46 percent), rabbits (28 percent), coyotes (22 percent), and bears (13 percent).
- Nonresident hunters are interested in the same species but in a different order: deer (84 percent), bear (21 percent), ruffed grouse (13 percent), coyotes (9 percent) and rabbits (4 percent).
- The typical resident hunter is male (92 percent), first hunted in Maine at age 15, and has hunted in Maine longer than the average nonresident hunter and hunts here on a more frequent basis. The average nonresident first hunted in Maine at age 30.
- Nonresident hunters, on average, are slightly older, somewhat more likely to be male, have more education and have a substantially higher level of income than Maine resident hunters.
- 75 percent of resident hunters also went open-water fishing in Maine in 1988, while 42 percent went ice fishing and 30 percent fished in salt water. Among nonresident hunters, 28 percent also fished in Maine during the open-water season, but only 6 and 7 percent, respectively, went ice fishing and salt water fishing.
- For a variety of reasons, not everyone who buys a license uses it. In 1988, 86 percent of resident hunting license holders and 98 percent of nonresident license holders actually hunted in Maine.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The October meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was held Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

As this meeting was the annual "What's It" and collectibles night some of those attending brought a number of intriguing items for display and discussion.

Program Chair John Bayerlein led in a portion of the program. The next part of the program featured Geraldine S. Howe with a history of one of Bethel's shortest streets, Philbrook, named for John Philbrook in the first decade of the 20th century. Mrs. Howe detailed the history of each site and the people who have lived on this street. A particular highlight were various photographs of students who attended the now closed Ethel Bisbee School. Following the Philbrook Street history, a video "Tourism and Historic Preservation" produced by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. was shown.

Preservation Chair Sally Rollinson-Taylor asked those attending to complete a survey of what historic features of Bethel they considered most significant and worthy of preservation. Kenneth Bohr, who is representing the Society on the history interest group for the forthcoming community conference requested input from Society members. Anyone wishing to respond to historical issues can pick up a form at the Society or call 824-2908.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Jane Hosterman announced that the next meeting would be held on Nov. 7 and feature a presentation on Bethel doctors during the first half of the 20th century by Margaret Joy Tibbetts, chair of the Society's Board of Trustees.

The "Gift of the Month" was announced as a photograph of Snow's Fall ca. 1920 from an anonymous donor. An honorary membership certificate was presented posthumously to Agnes H. Haines. It was accepted by her daughter Nancy H. Mercer. President Hosterman praised Mrs. Haines' distinguished record of service. She also announced the formation of an Agnes H. Haines Memorial Fund which will be part of the endowed funds of the Society, the interest from which will be used to acquire local histories and genealogies, which were of particular interest to Mrs. Haines. Society Director Stanley R. Howe announced that the forthcoming illustrated history of Bethel was now at the printers and that it was expected the book would be out in time for Christmas giving.

The next meeting is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m. at the Bingham House. All are welcomed to join.

Powder Ridge developer balks at Newry taxes

Representatives from Glover Development Corporation told Newry selectmen last week they were unhappy with the selectmen's decsion to tax the Powder Ridge subdivision lots as individual lots before they are sold.

According to Selectman Steve Wight, Glover Development Corp. does not own the Powder Ridge subdivision land, but is developing and marketing the property.

C.B. Cummings and Sons of Norway own the property and are billed for the taxes. Wight said C.B. Cummings has an agreement with Glover Development that calls for the developers to pay for any increase taxes caused by development of the property.

"C.B. Cummings has paid the tax to the town," Wight said, "and now they're looking for Powder Ridge to reimburse them."

Glover Development representatives told selectmen at last week's regular meeting that no lots were sold before the April 1 tax date, and therefore the property should not be taxed as individual subdivision lots.

But Wight said: "We feel that by staking out the lots, building the road and having the planning board approve the plan that it is a subdivsion. ... Glover Development says that the plan is registered with registrar of deeds, but we told them we have no control over that. Our procedure has been that once a subdivision was approved to put it on the tax maps as such and tax as individual lots."

Wight said selectmen agreed to contact the State Bureau of Taxation to make sure they are taxing correctly. Selectmen will contact Glover Development's attorney Michael O'Donnell with any findings. "We have to make sure we're in the right," Wight said.

Pharmacy & Your Health

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy

Exercise-Induced Asthma and Athletics

More than 10 million Americans or about four percent of the U.S. population have asthma. According to a recent article in Pharmacy Times, one in ten persons with asthma suffers from a condition referred to as exercise-induced asthma (EIA). EIA can affect an otherwise healthy individual, resulting in serious breathing problems. This can be troublesome for highly active individuals, including athletes – amateur and professional.

EIA is a health problem that is receiving a lot of attention because it affects one of our most vital functions – breathing. Typically, after three to eight minutes of vigorous exercise, EIA causes the air passages leading to the lungs to constrict. Constriction may be mild or severe. Severe constriction of air passages interferes with the normal exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs.

Several prescription medicines are available for those who suffer from EIA. Physicians who treat EIA may prescribe theophylline, albuterol, or terbutaline. These medicines work by relaxing the smooth muscle surrounding air passages leading to the lungs. Through the use of one or more of these medicines, the person with a history of EIA may be able to participate in the same activities as does the person who does not have EIA.

before the program can begin. "At this moment Congress is deciding whether or not to go into recess. If they do, nothing will be done for at least 2 weeks."

Smith said he is concerned that if Congress is away until mid-October, the HEAP program may not begin until well into November.

"We cannot take appointments at this time because we do not know what the new rules will be. The one thing we know is there is going to be a cut in the amount of funds for fuel assistance.

"The fact that there will be less funds means program rules may change. Without program rules, we can't start the program," Smith said.

Community Concepts is geared and ready to implement the program the moment they are allowed, he said.

"With our present economy, the amount of families running out of unemployment benefits and job opportunities so rare, I hope that the Administration and Congress can come together with a compassionate program to help American families.

Andover selectmen make appointments, vote to pave road

By BARBARA ADAMS

Andover selectmen appointed an animal control officer and an appeals board member, and voted to pave South Arm Road at their meeting Tuesday night. They also learned that the continuing controversy over the presence of a cedar screenhouse in a shorelands zone on East B Hill had been solved by the owner of the structure.

The selectmen appointed Gary Vaughn as animal control officer for the town. Vaughn has already attended a course in animal control. Appointed to the board of appeals were Elissa Thibodeau, Howard Bailey, and Rick Mills, with Howard Whitten serving as alternate. The appeals board will hold its first meeting within a week.

The selectmen unanimously voted to have Pike Industries pave .7 of a mile of South Arm Road which was reconstructed last year.

Selectman Wayne Delano said "Let's do it and get onto something else."

Delano and Selectman Brian Mills had previously voted to table this decision until the cost of other road repairs was determined. Pike's estimate was $18,980, and there is $23,384.33 in the road account. Preliminary grading will be done on the road prior to the paving if deemed necessary.

Laura Dubois notified the board that her cedar screenhouse in a shorelands zoning area on East B Hill will be moved to the required 75 foot setback this week.

The planning board had originally given the Duboises a shorelands zoning permit, but because of the objections and follow-up by planning board member Mark Burlamachi, later rescinded it by a two-to-one vote (Planning Board Chairman Ed Witt voted against rescinding the permit.)

Dubois told the Board she "did not want a lawsuit", and that the matter "had been built way out of proportion", and agreed to move the structure.

A public hearing has been scheduled during the Oct. 15 selectmen meeting to discuss a new general assistance ordinance. Also, from now on, general assistance applications will only be taken from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Tuesdays. In case of an emergency, Selectman Brian Mills can be contacted at 392-4691. The town's general assistance books were audited by the state and found to be correct.

An inquiry about striping East Andover Road led to a decision to contact the Department of Transportation to determine the number of stops on the road (where a solid line turns into a broken line). The cost of the striping by a private contractor is based on the number of stops. The D.O.T. told town administrative assistant Rebecca Schachter that should the town go ahead on its own and have a solid line painted, it would be liable should anything happen as a result.

The selectmen went into executive session to discuss the payroll schedule with road commissioner Wilbur Chenery, and an employee issue with chairman of the planning board Ed Witt. Selectman chair Fred Emerson stated that further public discussion regarding the latter matter would occur at the next planning board meeting on Monday, Oct. 7, which the selectmen plan to attend.

The selectmen will meet at the town dump on Sunday at 2:00 pm to determine the site of the recycling truck which will be delivered in November. A public informational meeting will be held on voluntary recycling within the next few weeks, led by Larry Roakes of the Bruce A. Rogers Company which is renting the recycling unit to the town.

Treasurer Alex LeGault told the Board he will request a raise in 1992 from $3600 to $3900 annually, since he has not received a raise since 1989. He submitted notes on budget committee figures to the board in preparation for the budget committee meeting to be held on Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the Town Office.

Red Ribbon Week fights drug abuse

Gov. John R. McKernan Jr. has proclaimed Oct. 19-27 the fourth annual Maine Red Ribbon Week to stop drug abuse.

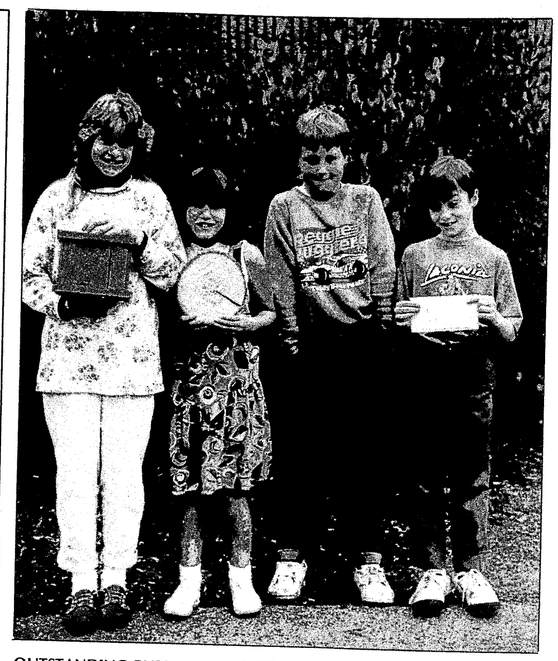
At a State House ceremony announcing the proclamation, students from Hall-Dale Middle School, Hallowell, pinned the governor with the official Maine Red Ribbon bearing the slogan "The Choice for ME—Drug Free!"

Red Ribbon Week, part of the national campaign promoting healthy, drug-free individuals, families and communities, is coordinated in Maine by Mainely Families, which raises money for its statewide parent-support programs by selling the Maine Red Ribbons. The printed ribbons and information on Red Ribbon Week are available from Mainely Families/PROP, 222 St. John St., Portland, ME 04102 (874-1140).

The Red Ribbon signifies a commitment to "NO use of illegal drugs, and NO illegal or irresponsible use of alcohol or other drugs."

Hundreds of Maine towns and cities are again planning special events and decorating schools, town halls and Main Streets to celebrate Red Ribbon Week. Mainely Families said that over 136,000 Mainers wore Red Ribbons in 1990, and hopes to increase that number to 200,000 in this year's campaign.

As honorary chair of Maine Red Ribbon Week, Gov. McKernan said, "Each of us as individual citizens has a stake in creating the kind of environment in which we want to live and raise our families. We need to understand how alcohol and drug abuse affects—sometimes tragically—our lives and our children's lives at home, at school, in the workplace, on the roads, and in our economy. It is important for us in state government to support and encourage all the people of Maine to participate in drug awareness and drug education activities—such as the positive, healthy program represented by Mainely Families and Red Ribbon Week—so that we can all look forward to a drug-free future."



OUTSTANDING PUPILS—Emily Phillips, Alicia Michlon, Nathan Cheever and Chad Sterns of the Woodstock Elementary School have been recognized as "Student of the Week" so far this school year.

More orange is de rigueur for hunters

Maine hunters are reminded they must wear two articles of hunter orange clothing during the firearms deer season this fall.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife says state law now requires two items of solid-colored hunter orange clothing be worn by anyone hunting with firearms during the regular firearms deer season and the special muzzle-loading season.

One of the hunter orange articles must be a hat. The other must cover a major portion of the torso—a jacket, vest, coat or poncho, for example.

The law applies regardless of the species being hunted whenever a firearm is being used while firearms hunting is legal for deer. Waterfowl hunters using a boat, blind or decoys are exempt.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife encourages firearms hunters to wear hunter orange voluntarily during seasons when it is not required. Its use has been a leading contributor to a dramatic improvement in Maine's hunting accident record over the past two decades. It also helps searchers locate hunters lost in the woods.

Instruments sought for young local musicians

Telstar Music Director Harry Davis is asking the community to donate used musical instruments to the SAD #44 music program.

Davis said there are many young students in the district who would like to learn to play a instrument, but can't afford to buy one, and for even whom rent-to-own instruments may be unaffordable.

The district has some school instruments, but most are already being used. Anyone interested in donating, loaning or selling an instrument can contact Davis at Telstar.

Davis would also like to hear from anyone interested in starting a community band. If enough interest is shown, a community band may be offered through the adult education office. The band would likely meet once a week and perform occasionally, Davis said.

Those interested can call Telstar and leave their name and telephone number or write the Telstar music department.

Literacy volunteers sought by Adult Ed.

The Adult Education program is in need of adults who would like to be trained as Literacy Volunteer tutors.

The expected time commitment for a tutor is two hours per week for one year. Training sessions for tutors are planned later in the fall in both Rumford and Norway/South Paris. The Rumford session will be held in the afternoons and is being sponsored by Literacy Volunteers.

Adults are currently in need of tutors both during the day and in the evening. Tutoring sessions usually take place at the Adult Learning Center at Ethel Bisbee School or at Telstar High School, in addition to several community locations. Anyone interested in becoming a tutor is asked to call the Adult Education Office, 824-2780.

Mrs. Perham's second-graders are working on Hot Dog words this week to learn the spelling rules for short o words. Jason Emery is this week's special student. Jason and his classmates are reviewing and learning all about safety rules both at school and in the neighborhood. They are learning that rules are made with safety in mind. They are learning with the help of Curious George filmstrips and books. Curious George is a curious little monkey who means well, but very often finds himself in trouble!

Mr. Burke's third-graders are beginning October with the all encompassing, umbrella theme of skin and bones. All areas of the curricula will be involved. In science and health they will be studying the skeletal and muscular systems and the integumentary system, or the skin. They will be featuring scary stories and Halloween stories in reading. In math they are working on addition combinations and patterns using unifix cubes, dice, and playing card games.

Mr. Litchfield's fourth-graders are enjoying the story of Don Fendler, Lost on a Mountain in Maine. They are finishing up their study of Aroostook County and the logging industry, and are beginning their study of the coastal region. They will be learning about the industries related to the ocean. In math they are doing some problem solving activities. they are working through some together, and practicing a variety of strategies. So far they have worked on the strategies of logical thinking and making an organized list. They are continuing with place value and numeration. In science they are investigating magnetic forces in electricity. In reading, their first written book report is due on Oct. 11.

My fifth-graders are still tagging butterflies, and learning about the classifications of plants and animals. In social studies we are studying the early discoverers and explorers of America. We are learning about the Norsemen, Eric the Red and Leif Ericson. We are also learning about the trials, tribulations and successes of Columbus. We are working on our first narrative story which can be in the first or third person. Each student has a very interesting topic sentence to begin with and are developing some neat stories. We have started our CAP, Children Are People, program. We have our own units on self-esteem, decision making, drug abuse prevention, as well as the Winner magazine. Mr. Tim Berger, with the donations of local merchants, provides the magazine and classroom visits to teach about drug and alcohol abuse prevention.

Mr. Koch's sixth-graders are creating a poem entitled, Seem to Be But I Really Am. They are writing about how they think people perceive them, and how they themselves really think they are. In reading they are catching up on workbook pages, reading folktales and legends, and examining literature that relates to Indians and early explorers of the U.S. In math they are continuing with the study of large numbers and the powers of ten blocks. They are building constructions to help in estimating, expanded notation and carrying. The answer to last week's brain teaser is:

Legumes are; beans, clover, alfalfa.

This week the sixth grade has a social studies question. What name do we give to the first known form of wedge writing in clay? It might help to know that the class is studying early civilizations, and that the first written history developed by the first civilization in 3600 B.C. was found in the Fertile Crescent. We may all learn something—not just the sixth-graders!

Woodstock School

A message from the principal

Catering the auction on Saturday was a unique experince. I enjoyed spending time with the WPTA volunteers and Woodstock Staff who worked. The hours were spent in a fun effort for a good cause. Many thanks go to Sue Rosenberg, Tara Durgin, Trisha Hall, Jean McGuire, Jean Gardner and Queda Billings all of whom worked to benefit the children of the Woodstock School. Many thanks to Elmer Lyons for the invitation to work at the auction.

At the same time a number of Woodstock parents conducted a bottle drive which also raised money. Thanks to you for the effort.

The school enjoyed a neat play by the Resource Room Students. They did a summary of their trip to the coast through the story, "A House For Hermit Crab." The players performed for parents and students on Tuesday. It was a most enjoyable performance.

The Walk-A-Thon funds are beginning to come in. We appreciate the effort by the students and the support of the community. The children completed their walk on Monday.

We would like to have all funds turned in to Wopdstock School by October 10, 1991, We will award the prizes at an assembly in the following week.

Thank you for your donations to the Walk-A-Thon. Your efforts will support many of the programs that are important to the Woodstock School Children.

Plans for the many events in October are beginning to materialize. Please, watch for articles in the Weekly to confirm the times of events.

Enjoy the beautiful foliage. As the season changes, we may reflect on the past year and look to the future with hope. Have a wonderful weekend.

The first month of school is completed. October activities are beginning.

Mrs. Loper's first-graders enjoyed a visit from David Abbott's great uncle, Mr. George Gibbs. Mr. Gibbs was a special guest speaker who added to the class's study of apples. He spoke about his apple orchard, the care, planting and harvesting of apples, and he taught the children about the parts of trees and how trees get their own food. The children worked on a math/science activity by identifying different kinds of apples and graphing them by these different kinds. They are also making pictographs in their graphing activities. They are starting math activities with various types of materials and are making collection boxes of lids, pasta, buttons, tiles, etc. In reading the class is working on their first story, At the Circus. Their new picture wall cards which are used to teach sounds feature the sounds of sh with a BE QUIET card. t with a tick-

GOLD MEDAL COACHING—Dimitri Baciliev, two-time Olympic gold medalist and nine-time Soviet national champion in the winter biathalon, coaches Natasha Boborova in the finer points of marksmanship. The two Russians, both from the recently renamed city of St. Petersburg, took part in the final Kingsbury Summer Biathalon event, held Saturday at the Gould Academy course. Boborova, a national class runner but not a shooter, won the women's event Saturday, while Baciliev—who has retired and is no longer in heavy training—took third place in the men's event. The winner of the men's event was Erich Wilbrect of Jackson, Wyo., a likely member of the next U.S. Olympic team. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Newry

By JIM ANDERSON

Before I get into the remaining news of the Maine Federation of Fire Fighters Convention in Calais, I want to take care of some other business. Oct. 14th, the Newry Mother's Club will meet at 7:30 pm and have a "white elephant" sale.

Safety tips: As Civil Defense Director and a fireman for the Town of Newry, I feel that a few tips about safety in the home and on the road are neccesary especially during this time of year. Home Safety: with all the gadgets and other things that "eat" electricity, we never have enough plugs in the house to do everything. We put into the outlets all sorts of extension cords, blocks to add two more cords to the outlet, string cords here and there til our houses look like a giant spider lives on extension cords. This is regardless of how old our houses are. Please watch the conditions of your cords and how many gadgets you have working at any time from one outlet! Don't use the cord to pull out the appliance, use the plug itself. If you get a shock from the plug, then get someone to change the plug for you; don't use the appliance with a bad cord or plug AND don't put any extension cord where you can hang yourself or step on it (like under a rug).

Now a personal plea, does anyone know where mother can get a beautician's nail file? They are about a foot long. We have tried all over to replace the one mother got from her mother. Handy way to get your point across as well.

Now to Calais. Saturday morning saw me up at 7:30 am (yes, Tink, I get up early) and after breakfast at the motel, mother and I went to where the vendors were holding "court". By 10:45, we were back at the hotel and waiting for the parade to start up in St. Steven's. The parade was to pass in front of the hotel, so mother, Erica and I had front row seats. By the time the parade was going by, Erica was scared out of her wits from not the sirens, but the horns on all the equipment that went by. The parade had to be at least 2 miles long and noisier then quite a few Mollyockett parades. There were horse drawn steamers, tubs, and even a truck that looks just like Bethel's latest. George Hill lead the Oxford part of the parade.

Saturday night, at the banquet, Terry Bowman, spoke to us about his bad experience fighting a fire in Oregon. Because he wasn't wearing his bunker coat and with the type of fire he was caught in; he received 2nd and 3rd degree burns over 49 percent of his body. Most firemen at the scene saw him scramble down a 100 foot ladder with his upper body on fire. The pictures of his body were not very pretty. He managed to get down and is still with the same fire department, with the same truck as he drove to the fire. To quote his wife, "he's a special man". His bravery in reliving this terrible scene once again was evident.

Fire Dept. News: Next meeting of the Newry Fire Department will be on Oct. 21 at the town hall at 7:00 pm. This is the way we normally meet.

More News from this part of Newry next week.

High Street West Paris

By VIVA WHITMAN

It looks like a good day starting even though it is quite cool this morning. Russell said the thermometer said 33 or 34 when he looked at a little before six. Makes one know what is coming but not how fast.

Tuesday was not as good a day for us as we attended the funeral of our sister's husband, Bernard Hutchins of East Andover. That isn't a fun thing to do but one that is required once in a while. It was a real shock to lose him the way she did.

After the graveside services, we gathered at Laura's home to see her as well as Bernard's family. The church ladies had put out a lot of little sandwiches, bars and goodies for everyone to eat and there was plenty of it. All was a beautiful sight the way they had arranged it. We would all like to thank them for that particular kindness. It was wonderful to see what they had done for Laura. Thank you all who helped out in her behalf.

The services were very good and I think it is nice to sing a hymn or two at that time. I thought it was very nice.

I was at the doctors again on Wednesday and finally got a little hope that I might get to try a Bio-feedback machine to see if it will help where my neck is concerned. I pray it will help.

Russell and Peggy went to the dance at Locke Mills on Saturday evening. In the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cobb and three children called in. They came home for Bernard's funeral from Colorado and I'm sure it was good for Laura to have her daughter and grandchildren there with her. They have been gone for quite some time out there where she couldn't see them and what a difference in size since we last saw the children. They sure have a way of growing when away from one's sight. They go back tomorrow and I wish them the best of luck.

Wynona and Michael with girls were here at the same time so we had a nice visit for a little while. We always enjoy callers.

I went to Bryant Pond on Sunday afternoon for the Pomona degree rehearsal with Russell and Peggy. We all help with it.

On Oct. 21, there will be a speaker at Franklin Grange on the turnpike question that is coming up for folks to vote on. We will have a speaker at 7:30 and would like to have a good crowd to hear him. This fellow is speaking on the NO side of the question and I was asked if he could present slides and told the one I spoke with that he could so it hopefully will give anyone a better idea how to vote on question 1 when you vote in November. Wish there was time to have a speaker on the other side of the question also but not enough meetings for that. However, all are welcome to this part of the meeting that evening.

Hope all remember the dance on Oct. 5 at the West Paris Grange Hall and don't forget the Halloween dance on the 12th. Come in costume and have a grand time.

Also, don't forget the 2nd of November is a grand day for West Paris as Mary told me that the West Paris Historical Society is putting on a hunter's breakfast. West Paris Grange will have their flea market and food sale from 9:00 to 1:00 and the Finnish Heritage Society is putting on a supper at the Grange Hall. Later in the evening there is a dance by the grange as usual so take advantage of the day and have a whale of a time in West Paris.

Ronald and Priscilla Brett called at the Lovejoys' last evening and gave Hope a flop-eared bunny to go with the others she has.

Mary said that the women of West Paris grange came in 6th place at Fryeburg Fair but the men's hadn't been judged when she was there so didn't know how they faired. She said there were good exhibits and I know it takes a lot of work for those exhibits so wish one and all the best on them.

Take care and have a good week ahead.

Alder River Grange joined Bear River Grange for installation of officers on 28 September with 11 officers present. A very nice supper preceded the meeting.

Rosie Cross, Donald and Christopher Walker helped Ruby Coolidge cut and split firewood on Sept. 28 and 29.

Opal Tyler and Peggy Coolidge enjoyed Fryeburg Fair on Oct. 1.

Peter and Bev Haines met a moose on the intervale on Tuesday evening. He finally went on his way.

Babe Bartlett and Arlene Harrington were at the Fryeburg Fair on Oct. 1 and enjoyed it.

Bob Hastings is still in the hospital as he had a set back. His stomach, where surgery was done, had swollen. He may not be able to come home for about a month yet. Other than this he is doing very well.

Coming home from work on Oct. 2, I saw a big bull moose just above the Stephen Abbott place. He had intended to cross the road but turned back in the cutover area.

The foliage was especially beautiful this year perhaps because we had more sunny days at the strategic time and rains and winds did not dislodge the leaves readily.

Dale Butterworth of Cumberland was in town recently inquiring about Wirt Lane, long time resident here, because he is compiling a report on old hand made tools. Mr. Lane who died about 1945, made log calipers and other tools which he marked E.S. Lane. Anyone having information may write to Mr. Butterworth, 136 Middle St., Cumberland, ME 04110.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Today I sparked a memory, perhaps because of the fall beauty around me as I walked and my diary brought back much of this ride taken several years ago on a rolling highway.

The morning of that day had a pearly fog at eight o'clock at my home. But the weatherman's prediction was that sunshine was on the way. Therefore the plans of my friends were kept and we started out.

Without sunshine the foliage was rather dull. There was no cardinal and saffron colors but the dooryards had their golden sun, the pumpkins.

The real sun appeared by the time we reached Bridgton which of course changed everything. Pleasant Mountain loomed before us, marked by its ski lift. Jockey Cap brought memories, as we neared Fryeburg because of the several times we had climbed it. Other Fryeburg memories were the Fair and the twisted doughnut tree.

We arrived in the Conway area where mountain trails began and the hum of activity is ever present.

That was where the Kancamagus Highway with its scenic miles of splendor started, some 30 or more miles winding through the White Mountain National Forest, where until 1958, there was but a trail. This, now, is one of the most scenic routes in the East.

The mountains were brilliantly threaded with paisley hues, and rocks boldly noticeable, as we looked from one high rise to another. How magnificant it all was with the water of Swift River beyond the Pass.

The brilliance of the sun made the leaves more luminous, as we came out of a town to the place where the Kancamagus Trail led toward Franconia Notch. This was very beautiful, too. On and on we rode by homes and highway bypasses.

Before we reached home darkness was upon us but the beauty of a long day stayed with us. Today I can still recall that ride in memory and I'm reminded that the Kancamagus Trail was named for the Fearless One of 1684, Indian Sagamon.

What a rainy week we had. To do outdoor work one had to get between showers.

On Wednesday, ten of us had a pleasant time even though it rained hard. I left home at eight thirty to go with Lettie Brooks to her farm home on Curtis Hill. She and I prepared a boiled dinner. At noon the others arrived. After dinner we gathered for an early Christmas Tree, as we do each September or October because one of the group leaves for Florida for the winter. We had fun.

John and Dot Betts were in Conway for the week end.

Ann Holt, David and Mary Holt were at the farm on Sunday. Because of the rain the "house building" was delayed in several ways.

Albert and Marie Curtis went on a trip to Niagara Falls for a few days to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary, then into Canada before coming home.

Several of Rena Curtis' children, and families were at her home on Sunday.

The voyageurs canoed 375 miles down the river in three weeks. Along the way they spotted lots of native wildlife and very few people. Pete Fox, Albert Nelson, Jr., Troy and Eric went to Wilson's Mills Tuesday for bird hunting. They had fairly good luck. While out, Eric came face to end with a large bull moose. They didn't bother each other and went on their separate ways.

Grace Nelson took Gladys Kilgore for a short ride Sunday morning.

E. Evelyn Eddy was guest preacher at the North Waterford church while Rev. Wilcox and husband Everett were away at a Conference at Sugarloaf, USA. Mary Grover and Fran Hamilton also attended the meeting.

Oct. 2, Waterford Friendly Senior Citizens met at North Waterford church for their monthly meeting and potluck dinner. Several from here attended this program.

On Oct. 3 a private bus tour supper was to be held at the East Stoneham church vestry.

Mrs. Helen Imperiale and Veronica Genest from Melrose, Mass. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heino Monday and Tuesday and visited the Fryeburg Fair while here. They also visited Albert and Eleanor Nelson as they have been good friends for many years.

Mrs. Grace Nelson and Edith Holt attended the harvest supper at North Lovell which was put on by the Grange.

September is leaving us very soon. October's bright blue weather will be with us. Enjoy it while you can.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway took in Windsor fair taking their camper and stayed a few days.

A birthday for Phyllis Stevens, organized by Edith Deegan was held Sunday at the banquet room at Rustlers diner. There were 32 or so present. She was given a beautiful decorated cake and Bertha Benoit made her a lovely sugar-free cake, also. A social time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews were over in the morning Tuesday and put in a lot of wood for the winter.

Vera Buck and Esther Davis were in Norway Saturday afternoon.

News is scarce this week. I guess too many fairs have been going so they are attending them.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews, Bridgton were in Massachusetts where they visited their daughter, Athlene Winkley over the weekend.

Esther Davis went on the Senior Citizen bus tour to Lake Winnepesaukee where they took a ride on the boat there.

Alaskan adventure

This time in late summer, after a relatively dry season, there was more white water to traverse, he said.

"It was lower which created some rapids and made it more difficult to navigate. There were class-two waves," Frank said. "I would compare it to the 13 mile woods section of the Androscogin In Errol, N.H. There were some long stretches of white water and we had to bail a couple of times, but no capsizing. We are by no means white water experts, but we are veteran campers and canoers."

The voyageurs saw three other groups of paddlers along the way. Frank said this was a change from the first trip, when they encountered no one else along the way. Besides the occasional canoeists and rafters there was plenty of native wildlife to see.

The Noatak River has very high river banks—300 to 400 feet in some places. Along the banks the party saw Dall sheep, fox and hundreds of migrating caribou, both in and out of the river. In the air there were golden eagles, peregrine falcons, hawks, other birds of prey, red-throated loons and other water birds, Dan said.

One evening a Barren Ground grizzly bear put in an unexpected appearance at camp. "He just appeared across the river from our camping area," Paul said. "He was above us so the perspective made him look a lot bigger than he probably was. He was after the blueberries."

Paul said the encounter was a little unsettling. "We moved the food much further away from the campsite than we usually did that night. I sat by the fire writing in my journal for a long time that night before I went to bed." Frank also told of a visit by an Arctic gray wolf. "We were having our coffee one morning and a wolf trotted past our campsite, down by the river," Frank said. "He howled two or three times and moved on, but we all wondered how we would have reacted to him if he'd come at night."

Once off the river, the four spent a few days with an Eskimo family in the Noatack village.

Frank said he met the Mills family on his first trip down the Noatack River. The family befriended his party, and this year he looked them up again.

The Mills family was at their summer home, a platform tent, near their commerical fishing site. After weeks of camp provisions, the paddlers accepted an invitation to dinner and some homecooking. They were treated to local delicacies, including caribou, baluga whale and Ugruk—the Eskimo name for the bearded seal.

"Here we were," Frank chuckled, "drinking Pepsi and dipping seal intestines in mustard." Dan quickly added, "I didn't get any mustard and I didn't ask for seconds."

Paul said he was impressed with the vast remote wilderness resources in the state.

Noatack National Park is one of several million-acre reserves, wildlife refuges and national parts above the Arctic Circle. Man has made few inroads in these wilderness reserves and most of the area is protected from oil exploration. But, he said, that may soon change.

Paul said the Bush administration is considering allowing oil exploration on Alaska's North Slope. A move he said he opposes. Man's search for oil and the money connected to it would have a negative impact on the wildlife and serenity of the area, he said.

Paul said the trip was an experience he's still pondering over. "I'm still figuring it all out," he said. "Anyone who does that trip and looks around at the area will not be unchanged by it—but to what extent I'm still not sure."

Dan said he will be returning to the Noatack River next summer with a group of students.

As for the rest of the group, Frank laughed and said, "The bush pilot that took us in reminded us that the last time we were there we called it 'a once in a life-time trip.' The pilot renamed it a once every three years trip."

Frank said the area has an undeniable appeal to the paddlers and although no plans are being made now to make the river run again, he's not ruling out a return to the Alaskan wilderness.

called "Great State of Maine" military operations area (MOA) and to lower the floor of the Condor I and II MOAs in order to meet new training requirements of the 103rd and 104th Tactical Fighter Groups (TFGs). Given the effect of these proposals on our state's residents and environment, the presence of sizable MOAs and military training routes (MTRs) in Maine at the present time, and the doubtful need for or usefulness of additional airspace in Maine given other alternatives, we request that you remove these proposals from consideration by the ANG immediately. Our specific concerns regarding these issues are presented below in detail:

As you know, under the ANG proposal, the Great State of Maine MOA would encompass nearly one-fourth of our state and have a floor of 100 feet above ground level (AGL). The floor of the existing Condor I and II MOAs, which encompass almost one-sixth of Maine, would be lowered from 7,000 to 300 feet AGL. According to the ANG proposal, over 4,600 sorties would be flown annually in the Condor MOAs, and over 2,900 sorties would be flown annually in the great State of Maine MOA.

Impact of ANG proposal on Maine

Implementation of the ANG proposals to lower the floor of the Condor MOAs and to create the Great State of Maine MOA would have a devastating impact on our state, its residents, and its wildlife. The regions encompassed by the proposed military airspace are home to many families that live there for a reason—to enjoy a quality of life and environment that is possible in few other places in the United States. These regions are also valued recreation areas to thousands of Maine residents and non-residents who visit them annually. Residents and visitors alike depend upon the serenity of these regions year after year. Low-flying military aircraft would cause undue hardship on their well-being and fundamentally alter the character of Maine's wilderness.

The ANG proposals would have a profound economic impact. The regions that would be affected are significant centers of tourism in Maine. The frequent presence of low-flying military aircraft would reduce the quality of Maine's recreational areas, and thereby result in a decline in tourism.

The regions encompassed by the ANG proposals contain recognized wilderness areas populated by a wide variety of animals and plants that are sustained by the natural habitat. The Great State of Maine MOA would shatter the solitude of the airspace over the Allagash Wilderness Waterway, a component of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers system. It would also damage the environmental integrity of Baxter State Park, one of the state's natural treasures. Lowering the floor of the Condor MOAs would disturb the White Mountain National Forest, Rangeley Lake State Park, Mount Blue State Park, and other wilderness regions. These are just a few of the areas that would be severely damaged by the implementation of the ANG proposals in Maine. We are concerned that the incessant noise of low-flying millitary aircraft could cause wildlife living in these areas to leave, stripping Maine of its natural resources and damaging important ecosystems.

The vast expansion of military airspace and flights in Maine would pose serious safety problems. Small airports and their users would face considerable hazards, and public safety would be jeopardized by the increased number of flights in the region.

Citizens, local groups and the State of Maine have expressed their opposition to the ANG proposals. Their concerns, which have been sent to the ANG directly, demonstrate that the proposals for additional military airspace in Maine are not viable.

Current use of military airspace in Maine

The second issue of concern to us is the current usage of Maine airspace by the ANG and other branches of the U.S. armed forces. As you know, there are presently three MOAs in Maine—Condor I, Condor II, and Deepwoods. These MOAs encompass about one-sixth of the state. Also, 13 MTRs (military training routes) are located in Maine—VR 840, VR 841, VR 842, IR 800, IR 800A, IR 800B, IR 804, IR 805, IR 843, IR 843A, IR 850, IR 851, and IR 852. Maine airspace is also used by the Navy to test sea-launched cruise missiles. Furthermore, operations at Loring Air Force Base have required substantial use of airspace above Maine.

We believe that these military-use areas in Maine represent a considerable contribution by the State to our nation's defense. At the same time, these areas require the residents of Maine to contend with infringements on their quality of life and safety. Further encroachment on Maine's airspace would be an inequitable and unfair imposition on a state that already shoulders a significant responsibility to accommodate the training and operational requirements of our armed forces.

In light of the current military uses of Maine airspace, we are extremely concerned about reports that military aircraft are violating the boundaries of designated MTRs and MOAs. We have received numerous complaints from citizens about disruptive ANG training flights that violate the boundaries of existing military airspace. In attempting to report such complaints, both our constituents and our staffs have received conflicting information as to the office responsible for taking corrective action in these cases.

Given Maine's significant contribution to our national defense, we do not believe that the ANG should consider a new MOA or an expansion of existing MOAs in our state. It is also imperative that the ANG take immediate steps to ensure that regulations pertaining to the use of existing military airspace are enforced and observed. We believe that corrective action must be taken before any new ANG units are permitted to use existing MTRs or MOAs in Maine.

Need for and utility of MOA modifications in Maine

The third issue of concern to us pertains to the selection of a Great State of Maine MOA and the expansion of the Condor MOAs as possible alternatives in the ANG's proposal. Of all the alternatives presented by the ANG, we believe that those which increase military airspace in Maine would be the least viable and most intrusive. The implementation of these alternatives would not be a necessary or efficient use of taxpayers' dollars.

In its proposal, the ANG states that the conversion of A-10 aircraft to F-16 aircraft for the 103rd and 104th Tactical Fighter Groups (TFGs) would require modifications to Special Use Airspace in the northeast region of the United States. It proposes several alternatives for such modifications, two of which include major expansions of military airspace in Maine. However, the ANG's documentation indicates that both the mission and the number of sorties of the converted 103rd and 104th TFGs would remain the same as in the past. We understand that the F-16 aircraft has different operational requirements than the A-10. Nevertheless, given the constancy of mission and sorties after conversion of the 103rd and 104th TFGs, we believe that the ANG may be able to accommodate its new training requirements by modifications only to the most suitable existing military airspace.

The ANG proposal states that it requested units to propose alternatives that would "provide low altitude airspace, within the region, that can meet training requirements; alleviate congestion in the few areas that can support required training; and minimize environmental concerns of the residents of the area."

One alternative presented by the ANG proposal would utilize existing airspace to accommodate the new training requirements of the 103rd and 104th TFGs. This alternative appears to accommodate most of the ANG's requirements. The ANG's own documentation shows that the implementation of this alternative would result in decreased use of the Warren Grove Range, Fort Indiantown Gap Range, Fort Drum Range, Syracuse MOA, VR 704, VR 705, VR 707, and VR 1709, thus alleviating congestion in these areas. At the Syracuse MOA—a principal training area for F-16 aircraft—sorties would decrease from 6,360 to 4,628 annually. This MOA already has a floor of 100 feet AGL, the level required by the ANG to meet its low altitude training requirements. Furthermore, the Syracuse MOA and other existing military airspace already have met the environmental requirements for F-16 training—a requirement that has not been met by the new MOAs proposed by the ANG. In light of these facts, it appears that the use of existing airspace would meet the bulk of the requirements set by the ANG.

Another alternative presented by the ANG proposal would be to expand or create new military airspace. If the ANG determines that it requires additional airspace, we believe that it must base its decision on ANG requirements and cost-efficiency considerations. The ANG's proposed alternatives for additional airspace in Maine do not provide operational or cost advantages. The Syracuse MOA, the Yankee II MOA, and the proposed Pipe MOA are all closer to Bradley ANG Base and Barnes ANG Base than are the proposed Great State of Maine MOA or the Condor MOAs. Shorter distances reduce transit time for aircraft and increase usable training time, thus providing more efficient pilot training and use of limited airspace, aircraft, and fuel.

In order to best meet its own requirements of providing low altitude airspace and minimizing environmental concerns, the ANG should make all efforts to use airspace that has already been determined to meet these requirements. In its proposal, the ANG notes that the Syracuse MOA, the Yankee II MOA, and existing corridors of the proposed Antler MOA already permit low altitude training, having already met the requirements for military use. It would therefore be more efficient and cost-effective for the ANG to use these airspaces or expand them to accommodate new training requirements, rather than expand or create new MOAs in Maine that would provoke considerable environmental concerns.

> These proposals would have a deleterious effect on the state and its residents, would impose an inequitable burden on a state already contributing significantly to national defense, and would not be operationally or financially appropriate.

Conclusion

Based on the above, we request that you withdraw immediately the ANG proposals to create the Great State of Maine MOA and to lower the floor of the Condor MOAs. These proposals would have a deleterious effect on the state and its residents, would impose an inequitable burden on a state already contributing significantly to our nation's defense, and would not be operationally or financially appropriate.

Given persistent reports of violations associated with the use of existing military airspace in Maine and difficulties our constituents have encountered in reporting these incidents, we request that you inform us of the ANG official or office responsible for issues pertaining to the use of Maine airspace, including a telephone number that our constitudents may use to submit reports of violations and information they should provide in submitting such reports. We also request that you review existing military flight parameters and ensure that all ANG pilots are instructed and supervised properly in the appropriate use of military airspace in Maine. We believe that these measures must be taken before any new ANG units use existing MTRs or MOAs in Maine.

So that we may better understand the ANG's current use of airspace in Maine, we would appreciate your providing us with complete information on the areas and routes in which ANG aircraft operate, the type of aircraft involved, rules governing ANG flights (altitudes, maneuvers permitted, restrictions in populated areas, etc.), and other relevent information.

Thank you for your consideration of these matters of great importance to Maine. We look forward to your prompt response.

Mahoosuc Arts notes—

On Saturday, Oct. 12, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will once again sponsor the fall fund-raising event: the fourth annual Hike/Walk/Run at Sunday River Ski Resort—held in conjunction with Sunday River's Fall Festival Weekend.

This hike/race to the top of Sunday River's Three Mile Trail is designed for family hikers and serious racers alike. The race is scheduled to start at 10:15 a.m. and registration will begin at the South Ridge Center, 8:30 a.m.

Prizes ranging from gift certificates to ski weekend packages will be awarded for all age levels.

Proceeds from the race registration will help sponsor programs in the arts in the Bethel area schools and communities. Thanks to the Council's 1990 fund-raising efforts, students at all grade levels in the SAD #44 schools have attended workshops and assembly programs this fall presented by vaudevillians, Benny and Denise Reehl, and the Renaissance Swordsmen, and dramatist/singer, Ladjamaya.

None of these programs would be possible without the generous support and combined efforts and contributions of individual community members; SAD #44; Gould Academy; Mahoosuc Arts Founding Sponsors: Bethel Savings Bank, P.H. Chadbourne and Co., the Otten family, and Dick and Wendy Penley; and Mahoosuc Arts Season Underwriters: the Bethel Inn, the Bethel Spa, and Bonnema Potters.

Upcoming performances this fall include the Atlantic Saxaphone Quartet, the Basin Brothers Cajun Band, and a Messiah Sing. For more information about these and other programs please call the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575.

Jackson-Silver Auxilary

On Oct. 3, Jackson-Silver Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, met for a regular meeting, which followed a special program conducted by Mary Lyon, who chairs both the Americanism and Music committees.

The Post members joined the Auxiliary in participation by singing patriotic selections and answering questions concerning what it means to practice Americanism; what each one does as an individual as well as members of an organization.

The program began with the Salute to the Flag and singing the first verse of the National Anthem and ended with singing the last verse.

In between the questions were brought up and answered, interspersed with the singing of such songs as "America", "The Marine's Hymn", "Air Force Song", America the Beautiful", "Anchors Aweigh", "The Caissons Go Rolling Along", etc.

During the meeting there was more discussion concerning the future activities this month. It was decided that, since the admission to the card/game party on Oct. 13 is only $2, the players may, if they wish, make additional contributions to the Special Olympics, which is the program that the proceeds will be donated.

For the Oct. 17 supper to honor the Boys and Girls State delegates the dessert will consist of ice cream and cookies. Members were asked to bake a variety of cookies. Since this is also the membership supper, it is hoped that those members who have not already paid the next year's dues will attend and pay at that time.

It was announced that the Auxiliary's Foreign Relations Program this year has four major points of interest. They are: POW/MIA Awareness; Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty Internship Program; Successor Generation; Study of Czechoslovakia. In connection with the latter it was decided to have a program on that country in January and to serve a meal of the ethnic foods associated with it.

Jeri Brooks Greenwell of Bethel is the department chairman of this committee.

It was reported that Frank York has undergone further lung surgery and is in intensive care. He and his family are in need of support of friends Two other friends of the Post and Unit, Vito DeFilipp of the Rumford Post and Dot Bailey of the Norway Unit, were reported as ill and to be remembered with cards.

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post 68 met Thursday night, Oct. 3 at their Hall on the Gore Road, Locke Mills, at 7 pm.

Members of the Post joined members of the Auxiliary for one half hour of singing patriotic songs and answering quiz questions about the flag. Then the two groups divided for separate meetings.

Following the standard procedure of meeting format, the meeting opened with the flag salute, prayer, repeating the Preamble, followed by the roll call of officers.

The first order of business was the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Post adjutant. Andrew Bartlett. This was followed by various reports of the officers present for their particular office. The report of the post treasurer, Delwin Wilson showed a good return from the Bingo Games of the past month.

Under post correspondence, an invitation was read from the Daughters of Union Veterans, Judith Grover Ten 17, to attend a reception honoring Alice Hoyt at the Woodstock Elementary School, Sunday, Oct. 20 at 2 pm.

It was voted by the Post to donate a "Bingo Pass" to the Andover Elementary School to be used in their "Christmas Fair Raffle," which has as its project the purchase of playground equipment.

The Post is encouraging all members to send "Get Well Cards" to Vice Commander Frank York, care of Central Maine Medical Center, 300 Main St., Lewiston. Comrade York has been hospitalized since July 21 with at least three major operations, spending most of these weeks in an intensive care unit. Therefore cards and personal visits will be most welcome. One should check with the hospital to see if he can have visitors before entering.

Plans for the upcoming Patriotic Program at Franklin Grange, Bryant Pond on Nov. 4 were discussed again.

It was voted to give a donation of $50.00 to Public Access Television, Channel 4 in Telstar High School.

The meeting closed with a discussion "Under The Good of The Legion" of the matter of getting a wider participation in the program of the Post by its members. At the present time there is only about 10 percent participation, which will eventually close the Post unless changed. All members reading this report are asked to help by at least attending meetings.

News from the Bethel Area

Health Center

October is Breast Cancer Detection Month, and we at the Bethel Area Health Center would like to encourage women of all ages to participate in prevention for early detection. It is important to find breast cancer as early as possible. If cancer is found early, there are choices for treatment. With prompt treatment, the outlook is good. The National Cancer Institute encourages women to take an active role in the early detection of breast cancer by:

- Practicing monthly breast self-examination(BSE)
- Having a yearly breast exam; and
- Getting a routine mammogram after age 40

Women are often confused about what their breast are supposed to feel like. It is normal for the breasts to feel lumpy and uneven. Sometimes the breasts are swollen and tender, especially right before a woman's menstrual period. By doing monthly BSE, women learn what's normal for their own breasts, and they are more likely to find anything unusual that might be a warning sign of cancer. Any changes should be reported to a health practitioner. Stop by the Health Center for an easy to follow BSE guide.

The second step of early detection is for a woman to have her breasts checked regularly by her health care practitioner.

Mammograms (X-rays of the breast) can find many breast cancers before they can be felt. Mammography, together with a breast exam by a health professional, can reduce the number of deaths from breast cancer. Starting at age 40, a woman should have a mammogram every one to two years. When she reaches age 50, she should have a mammogram every year.

The Health Center is again offering a series of flu clinics to be held in various locations during October and November. The cost of the immunization at one of the clinics is $7.00. The schedule is as follows:

Save Fuel Costs Button Up Home

Insulating is important to control heat loss through walls, floors and ceilings.

Most of us live in houses which were built at a time when nobody worried about the cost and supply of oil, gas or electricity. Today, we are learning from our soaring heating bills that our homes are ill-protected against heat loss. However, by adding more insulation where there is none or too little and by installing weatherstripping and storm windows, we can cut heat loss, use less fuel and save money.

Insulating is really very simple. All you need is the proper insulation and a good stapler like Arrow's T-50 Staple Gun, ET-50/ETN-50 Electro-Matic Staple Guns or HT-50A Hammer Tacker. Load your gun with staples that have ⅜" legs. These have ample penetration in the softwood studs and excellent holding power. Insulation with vapor barriers usually has flanges at the edges for easy stapling.

Press the insulation in between the studs and staple the flange on one side to the front of the adjacent stud; repeat with the flange on the other side. The entire cavity between studs should be filled with insulation from top to bottom without any gaps or breaks. The staples should be driven every six inches. Note: If you use insulation with an aluminum foil vapor barrier, the flanges on both sides must be stapled to the sides of the studs. If you have the vapor barrier facing the warmer adjacent areas, the barrier and its flanges will be out of reach on the inside of the cavity. Support this insulation with chicken wire stapled to the studs.

If you use insulation without a vapor barrier, place it between the studs in the usual way, then cover the entire wall with sheets of clear polyethylene plastic as a vapor barrier. If possible, fold the sheet so you are stapling through a double thickness. Staples should be inserted every 8 inches along the front end of each stud.

For additional tool information, write to Arrow Fastener Company, Inc., 271 Mayhill Street, Saddle Brook, NJ 07662.

THOUGHTS FROM THE

Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Probably one of the best known and loved Psalms is the twenty-third Psalm. In verses one to three we see the Lord as "The Great Provider". In verses four and five we see Him as the "The Great Protector", while in verse six we see Him as "The Great Preserver".

The first five words of this Psalm are its most important words, "The LORD is my shepherd." Until they become a reality, the rest of the Psalm is meaningless.

You will note that the name "LORD" as given in the Bible, all spelled with capital letters, indicates the great majestic, high and holy name for our Lord, which is "Jehovah", written "YAHWE" in the ancient Hebrew, meaning, "the self-existent One,", "The eternal God" the one and only true God.

Thus is acknowledged the majesty of His person, for in this Psalm He is a personal God. How sad indeed to hear this God referred to simply as "the man upstairs", or even worse as merely as "an overruling power" or some vague nameless abstract being.

The personal pronoun "my" would indicate a personal relationship. How "mind-boggling" to realize that this Great God, the "self-existent One" creator and sustainer of the vast universe in which we live, desires to have an intimate personal relationship with the one He created.

The word also indicates that this personal relationship is based upon a personal commitment by the individual. It is a matter of a personal choice for one to make Him their Shepherd.

However, before He can become one's shepherd He first must be their "Savior". We read in God's word that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God," (Rom.3:23). Isaiah 53:6 exlains man's need using the same figure of speech, interestingly enough, "All we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned everyone to his own way, and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of uf all."

Once again we face a mind challenging truth, before this loving condescending "Shepherd" can become "our shepherd" be first must have become "our Savior". Did not He say in John 10:11, "I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep?"

The pronoun "my" further indicates, as we have already stated, a matter of personal choice by the exercise of our individual free will is involved. Have you ever considered this all important matter? Have you seen yourself as a lost sheep, separated from the "shepherd" by sin? If not why not acknowledge your condition, forsake any longer "going your own way" and receive this "Great Shepherd" of the sheep (Heb. 13:20) your savior.

Then as you further consider this loving personal relationship make He who is your Savior your "shepherd". Once again it is a matter of the "will" in being willing to submit to the leadership of this "shepherd". Surely the One who loved you enough to die for you can only have your very best interest in His heart.

But alas the depraved human heart epitomized by Isaiah 53:6 as a sheep who has "turned to his own way", doesn't want to submit itself to the "shepherd". "Nobody-is-going-to-tell-what-to-do" seems to be the hue and cry that stems from the unregenerate heart of man. Yet until we have made these two important commitments of receiving the Lord as our Savior and making Him "LORD" our "shepherd" in humble submission, we cannot read the first line of the twenty third Psalm with any meaning.

As you read this won't you consider making these two all important commitments. Always remember "God's way is always the best way". Besides I can tell you upon the authority of God's word, it is the only way that leads to heaven-God's eternal "sheep fold".

Assistant Pastor
Bryant Pond Baptist Church

Obituaries

BRUCE B. BAILEY

Bruce B. Bailey, 76, died of congestive heart failure on Sept. 30, 1991, at Market Square Health Care Center in South Paris where he had been a patient for one month.

He was born in Newry, the son of Howard R. and Edith Spinney Bailey and began his formal education as one of three pupils in a log cabin in Ketchum and finished at the University of Wyoming. As a young man he worked in varying capacities in the lumber industry.

He served in the Army Corps of Engineers in World War II, landing on the beaches of Normandy on D-Day and staying through the Battle of the Bulge.

After he returned to the states he worked as a bartender in New York, a handyman at a Florida resort, an estate manager on Cape Cod and learned to be a farrier at CalPoly in San Luis Obispo, Calif. After he returned to Bethel he lived at Skyfields and managed to earn his daily bread with part-time jobs leaving him time to do the things he most enjoyed.

He was an avid reader and a lover of everything that pertained to horses. He rode, trained, made harnesses and tack, built trailers and wagons, cleared trails over the mountain (with the permission of landowners) and gave lessons. Now the children of his first riders win ribbons. He took a turn at the usual civic duties, a 4-H Club, county committees, library trustee.

He is survived by his sister, Hope Perkins, and her daughter, Terry, both of Sonora, Calif.; and his wife, Beckie.

He requested no public services and that his ashes be strewn on the Laramie Plains where he spent one of his happiest years.
